Artist Statement

It is my joy and goal to tell the story of the unnoticed and the exceptionally forgettable.

This show is comprised of stop motion videos and prints relating to our unnoticed conveniences and our ability to take our subconsciously forgotten surroundings for granted.

If you're hungry, someone has already made food and you can buy any variety of cuisine.

If you're sick, you can go to a pharmacy where they have modern medicine in your favorite flavor.

If you're out of money for buying things, you can go to a place where a plastic rectangle can be swiped and cash is dispensed.

You can do all of these by rolling down the window of your vehicle and never having to stand up.

And if that vehicle gets too dirty, you can punch a few buttons to have an automatic sprayer and brush wash your car.

Even if your car runs out of fuel, you don't even have to go inside or go more than an arms length from your vehicle.

Our world has become so convenient that we are implementing ways to avoid convenient stores.

This is the story.
This is not where you are.

This is not where YOU are.
