spread to other cities. It was quite a movement.

In 1936, when I came to "Life" -- as you intended -- it was by way of making a survey to check up on the survey that was being made by some welfare group in the city. The first things we had in Life's Fresh Air Fund -- you were called Life's Fresh Air Farms -- that certain people's opinion felt there should be an investigation, for the kids were getting bad.
